The public is cordially invited.

DAVIS THEATRE.

Complete Change of Programme Today
—Three Big Kilt Acts and Triangle
Photoplays.

There will be a complete change of programme today and the feature attraction is the Musical Gordon Highlanders. The Gordons are four in number. They are wonderfully accomplished musicians and singers and also dancers of rare ability. They offer an exquisite repertoire of selections on nearly every instrument known in this country, and also introduce several musical inventions of their own. These are shown directly from the land of Burns and Scott, and with plaids, kilts and pipes have filled the hearts of all Scots who have witnessed their performance with much pride and have delighted as well as auditors of every nationality by the artistic and humorous character of their offerings. A great many Scottish societies have been organized in this vicinity when the Musical Highlanders appear. Be sure to come and enjoy them. The feature of the bill is Harry Brown, the Indian singing cartoonist, and Dron and Barrows, who present a pleasing singing and dancing comedy. The Triangle Photoplay is Hoodoo Ann, a five-part Griffith picture, with Mae Marsh as the star, and the Keystone comedy is Mac Swain, a funny two-reel laugh provoker, by Stork Delivery. Special music by the Davis orchestra.

GEORGE ARLISS IN PAGANINI

At Davis Theatre Friday, May 6th.

As in Disraeli, so now in Paganini, George Arliss, who comes to the Davis theatre Friday evening, May 6th, direct from a brilliant Broadway management, depicts a figure from history. This time the literature of music, instead of that of diplomacy, has been drawn upon for the character of the story. Mr. Arliss' notable success in his last vehicle has given him the right to undertake the delineation of Paganini, the wizard violinist, and the author, Edward Knoblauch, is said in Paganini to have duplicated his brilliant work in Kismet. My Lady Dress, Marie Curie and My Lady Arliss, it is said, depicts the softer side of Paganini's character. Paganini's name was once anonymous with hypnotic power, he was believed by the superstitious to be in league with the Evil One: his appearance on the street was a signal for the gathering of a mob of the curious. Paganini was, however, a phase of the great maestro's life during his stay in England into which a great romance entered and in this period Paganini's life that Mr. Knoblauch has selected for his comedy. The Paganini of the play is an eccentric genius, but he shows himself to be possessed of a fine, generous nature. He exhibits human faults and human virtues and the role is said to afford Mr. Arliss large opportunities for the exercise of his wonderful artistry. The main theme of the piece is a love story. An ingenious young English girl yields to a blind and scornful admiration for a musical genius. She becomes infatuated with the great artist and throws aside her fiancé, a young English officer, to follow what she believes to be the true dictate of her heart. She follows Paganini to the continent. How Paganini meets the situation and finally sets the young girl on the path of true happiness forms the climax of the story. The fire of the genius, his oddities of manner and thought, and the eccentricities of his personal appearance are blended. It is said, into a finely-wrought characterization by Mr. Arliss. Miss Margaret Maude, young and talented daughter of Cyril Maude, has the role of the English girl, and others in the brilliant supporting company are Mrs. Arliss, Florence Maude, Repton, Rosina Henley, Dudley Digges, Dion Titherage, Charles Harbury, Edgar Kent, Fred Nicholls and Noel Pearl.

Seats are now on sale at the box office.
For Two Nights, Monday and Tuesday, May 15 and 16.

Manager Al Craig of the Davis theatre announces that arrangements have been made with William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest for the engagement of the most wonderful play in America, George V. Hobart's Experience. The engagement will be for two nights, Monday and Tuesday, May 15 and 16.

The engagement will be of unusual importance, as the famous New York-Boston Experience organization comes to Norwich direct from nine months in New York and five months in Boston. Experience is called by the critics a sensational success of this generation. The play shows Youth in the fourth into the world with Experience by his side as his best teacher and this allegorical romance with its scenes laid in New York is one of the strongest and most powerful of sermons and a play which, after all, is one of the liveliest and most entertaining. It shows imagination in selecting the various temptations which confront Youth. Mr. Hobart has decided to have them portrayed by beautiful women, attractive in their loveliness. Thus intoxication becomes a most alluring maiden; Passion is a beautiful Oriental girl, and the role of Experience is filled by a gorgeously gowned and fascinating young woman, and so on for the various vices and virtues which are to be met with in the world. The scenes of Experience indicate to a certain extent the widely varying character of the play. It starts in a little country village where Youth has fared well to his sweetheart, Love. It shows his meeting Pleasure on the Street of Vacillation, then Youth is seen dancing the tango on the Frivolous Path with twenty beautiful types of alluring girlhood surrounding him, and then seductively shows Youth's downward glide by the road of the gambling hall where he loses all his money, then to a low dive where Youth works as a waiter but is kicked out by the owner who does not like Youth's ways, and then Youth drifts to the House of Lost Souls, a den of cocaine faddists, where he meets Cadence, a girl craving for more of the treacherous drug starts out with Crime to kill a man and thus secure the cocaine. As they pass along The Street of Forgotten Days, Youth hears a hymn his mother used to sing coming from a house.

church. It is Lead, Kindly Light, and under its influence Youth leaves Crime and goes back to the little girl in the country to begin life anew with Love and Hope by his side.
There are 42 speaking parts in Experience, and in the notable cast are: Wanda Carls, May McManus, Conrad Nagle, John Todd, Emmett C. King, Maude Allen, Marion Holcomb, Elsie Andrus, Harry Buchanan, Algie Kevall, Maude Furness, Al Collins, Oliver Hunsdel, Sissy Macdon, Charles Haskins, Duncan Harris, Percy O'Keefe, Vera Leonard, Marie Sinclair, Charles Hina, George Seybolt, Alva de Anchorage, Frances Connor, J. C. Caspary, Doris Moore, Helen G. Williams, George T. Meach, George Berry. The stage will be under the direction of Edwin Silton, and George Berry will direct the music and orchestra. The music is by Max Bendix and the cabaret songs and music by Silvio Hein. In the Prince of Faith scene there is a large comic opera chorus.

AT THE AUDITORIUM

The Playland Kiddies, Nine Clever Children, the Feature for Last Three Days.

For the feature act of the vandeville program at the auditorium for the last three days of this week the management has booked the Playland Kiddies, a cast consisting of nine clever children ranging in age from five to 12 years and presenting a miniature musical comedy running about one-one-half hour. The cast is a long tour of the leading vandeville houses throughout the west and is without question one of the best acts of its kind and have delighted the audience for the last half of the week. Ruth Belmer, a wonderfully fine black and white performer, and Beth Andrews, a dainty singing comedienne, are the picture program for today, the Horrors of War, taken on the French battle front, will be the feature attraction. The picture is a masterpiece of the French film industry. The picture will be shown for Friday and Saturday of this week will be a five-reel production of the French film, The Old Homestead, the greatest single triumph of the American stage. The picture will be presented by Daniel Freeman and the cast is headed by Frank Losee. Lewis Gage, the New Haven boy who has been serving at the front in France for more than a year and about whom The Evening Star had an interesting account yesterday morning, has been engaged to lecture at the auditorium theatre for two days with the picture, The French firing line. This extra attraction will take place in about two weeks the exact date to be announced later.

Coming to Davis Theatre, The New Henrietta.

Joseph Brooks has employed a good many actors in his days of management, now running up to over 40 years, and has always had the fellowship spirit of the old school which knit players and managers together like soldiers of blood. He has produced more dramas written by Americans than any other native, and in the last five years he has added to the list of his actors some of the greatest talents of the stage beyond all precedent. It was Mr. Brooks who inspired the dramatic career of Hurst and directed the triumphal tour of the spectacle of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, comedy classic, The Rivals. In this his latest performance were Jefferson, Florence, Crane, Taylor, George, Wilson, E. M. and Joseph Holland, Julia Marlowe, Mrs. John Drew and Fanny Relfe. He now has underway another revival, Bronson Howard's delightful play, The Henrietta, with William H. Crane, Thomas W. Ross, Maclay Arbutnot, Amos Blinghame, and others. Tallafiero—all stars—in the interpreting cast. He was the original producer of his vigorous and fascinating play, and was the cause of its being written for Robson and Crane. It is a mistake for actors of national fame to serve the movies. They are tempted for a picture by the bait of big money, and for a few weeks' salary of unnatural amount, their name and face and manner are the property of the wise film maker. Later when the actor is starred in an original play at a legitimate theatre, he is confronted by a crazy quilt of posters, blazoning the fact that he may be seen in his greatest success for ten cents at a neighborhood house. This amounts to saying that he is on the down grade and is an actor and is sure to flatter the result of his business on a two dollar basis. That situation is also sure to shave his salary where he made his success, and depreciation in the high priced market takes the bloom off his peach as a theatrical star. The men who lead in the moving picture world are not apt to keep up the abnormal salaries they have been giving certain actors, once the edge is off the novelty of the distinguished name, and the actor's strong appeal because of success in the legitimate theatre is running low. Then the actor will be between two stones of repression, and his income is as sure to wither as a green tree. The New Henrietta will be the attraction at the Davis theatre, Wednesday, May 4, and Saturday, May 6. Seats on sale Saturday, May 6.

A ROSE O' PLYMOUTH TOWN.

There is plenty of comedy in A Rose O' Plymouth Town, with good situations to bring out the various characters. Blunt, outspoken and resolute, who has left New London in search of a new adventure, is a young sympathizer with the unpretentious and cheerful young folks gathered in the home of Miles and Barbara Standish. Recollections of her own youth make it easy for her to enjoy the pranks of the vivacious French maid, Rosa de la Noyes, and the hot-blooded lover, Garret Postle. The new scene, both for Aunt Resolute and the audience, is produced in the closing scenes, when the difficulties of the situation are solved by a clever discovery of Rosa. This play is to be given in Slater hall by the Academy Dramatic club on Friday and Saturday, May 5 and 6, at 8 o'clock. Tickets on sale at Davis book store.

COLONIAL THEATRE
The feature picture at the Colonial theatre today is entitled The Ingratitude of a Father, dealing with the love of a young man for a girl who is the daughter of a man who has been a villain. The picture is a pretty girl of 20. His Wife's Secret is an Esmeralda drama. Another picture today is The Heart of a Hero, a Selig drama. The Frivolous Path shown today are Tess of the Dillies, a Biograph drama, and Feminine Wit, a comedy. The picture is a story of a young man who is a very clever and a very handsome young man, and so on for the various vices and virtues which are to be met with in the world. The scenes of Experience indicate to a certain extent the widely varying character of the play. It starts in a little country village where Youth has fared well to his sweetheart, Love. It shows his meeting Pleasure on the Street of Vacillation, then Youth is seen dancing the tango on the Frivolous Path with twenty beautiful types of alluring girlhood surrounding him, and then seductively shows Youth's downward glide by the road of the gambling hall where he loses all his money, then to a low dive where Youth works as a waiter but is kicked out by the owner who does not like Youth's ways, and then Youth drifts to the House of Lost Souls, a den of cocaine faddists, where he meets Cadence, a girl craving for more of the treacherous drug starts out with Crime to kill a man and thus secure the cocaine. As they pass along The Street of Forgotten Days, Youth hears a hymn his mother used to sing coming from a house.
